

THESIS GUIDELINES FOR THE DIVISION OF LITERATURE AND LANGUAGES

which includes the Departments and Programs of Chinese, Classics, Creative Writing, English, French, General Literature, German, Russian, Spanish

DIVISION DUE DATES FOR SPRING-FALL THESES 2010

By FEBRUARY 10 (Wed.), no later than 12 noon - the Information for Thesis form, which will be sent to students in January, must be turned in to the Division office (Vollum 320) by all thesis students (including English majors), indicating a thesis advisor and topic must be chosen.

By FEBRUARY 24 (Wed.), no later than 12 noon - 2 copies of a one- or two-page statement of the thesis topic must be turned in by all thesis students (including English majors) to the Divisional Secretary. (Turn it in to Karen Bondaruk, Vollum 320, who will place one copy on reserve in the library and give one copy to your thesis advisor. Subject to the thesis advisor approval, this final proposal of thesis topic can be a copy or revision of an approved English or Creative Thesis Proposal.)

By APRIL 19 (Mon.), no later than 12 noon - 3 copies of a chapter or substantial section (approximately twenty pages) together with a brief prospectus of the remainder of the thesis must be turned in to the Division Secretary (CC320). Well before this date, the Chair of the Division will have appointed a first reader for this material (in the normal course of setting up orals boards). The Divisional Secretary will place one copy of each chapter and prospectus on reserve in the library, distribute the others to the advisor and first reader, and schedule during the next two weeks an occasion in which each thesis student shall present his or her work for discussion. All members of the Division, both student and faculty, shall be invited to these discussions, but only the advisor, the first reader, and the student in question are obliged to attend.

APRIL 26-30 (M-F) - Thesis Conferences with student, advisor and 1st reader will be scheduled by the Division to be held during the week at 4:15-5:00 p.m. or 5:15-6:00 p.m. (4:30-5:15 or 5:20-6:05 on MW). Schedules of assigned times will be sent to students and faculty in April, with a Master copy posted at Vollum 320.

At the end of the semester, the advisor shall give a grade evaluating thesis work during the Spring.

NOVEMBER 1 (Mon.), no later than 12 noon - DRAFT DEADLINE: All students in the Division of Literature and Languages, with the exception of students writing creative theses, are required to submit one copy of a draft of the complete thesis on the second Monday after mid-semester break to the Division Secretary (Vollum 320). This draft should represent a complete, preliminary version of the thesis and should include a clearly articulated introduction and conclusion. Students should keep in mind that the Division strongly recommends that the appropriate length of theses is between 50-80 pages, 1.5 spaced. Your thesis advisor will read the draft and provide you with suggested revisions within one week. Any student who does not meet the draft deadline will not be guaranteed comments by the advisor. In addition, because the Division considers this an essential portion of the thesis course, any student who does not meet the draft deadline should not expect to graduate at the regular time. If, in spite of this, the thesis is accepted for graduation, the final grade for the thesis course may be lowered.

DECEMBER 3 (Fri.), no later than 3:00 p.m. - Senior theses are due in Registrar's Office (4 copies).

DECEMBER 9-10 (Th-F) - Thesis Orals Boards (scheduled by the Division) will be held during the week at 10 a.m.-12 noon, 1-3 p.m., or 3-5 p.m. Schedules of assigned times will be sent to students and faculty in November, with a Master copy posted at Vollum 320.

OTHER DUE DATES: Departments within the Division may have additional guidelines. Students are required to meet the Division due dates even though department requirements may overlap. It is the student's responsibility to check with their major department. For instance, English Majors have proposals due earlier in the semester to their department.

"Suggestions For Thesis Students," the Division of Literature and Languages thesis handbook, is available at the Department and Division Office, Vollum 320. Also available are guidelines for Creative Theses and General Literature majors. All thesis due dates are "no later than" dates—material can, of course, be submitted earlier.

Requirements for formatting your thesis are found in the College Senior Handbook, which is distributed by the Registrar's Office, but the Division strongly recommends that the appropriate length of theses is between 50-80 pages, 1.5 spaced. The College provides Thesis Help classes, computer guidelines and Library thesis desk lottery. It is also strongly recommended that you learn about these things even before you begin your research.

REMINDER FOR FALL-SPRING 2010 SENIORS:

MARCH 29, 2010 (Mon.), no later than 12 noon - Draft Deadline: All students in the Division of Literature and Languages, with the exception of students writing creative theses, are required to submit one copy of a draft of the complete thesis on the second Monday after mid-semester break to the Division Secretary (Vollum 320). This draft should represent a complete, preliminary version of the thesis and should include a clearly articulated introduction and conclusion. Your thesis advisor will read the draft and provide you with suggested revisions within one week. Any student who does not meet the draft deadline will not be guaranteed comments by the advisor. In addition, because the Division considers this an essential portion of the thesis course, any student who does not meet the draft deadline should not expect to graduate at the regular time. If, in spite of this, the thesis is accepted for graduation, the final grade for the thesis course may be lowered.

APRIL 30, 2010 (Fri.) - Senior theses are due no later than 3:00 p.m. in Registrar's Office (4 copies).

MAY 3-7, 2010 (M-F) - Thesis Orals Boards (scheduled by the Division) will be held at 10 a.m.-12 noon, 1-3 p.m., or 3-5 p.m. Schedules of assigned times will be sent to students and faculty in April, with a Master copy posted at Vollum 320.