Reisberg, D. Presentation as part of “The 10th Mind and Life Conference: Exchanges between Buddhism and Biobehavioral Science with His Holiness the XIVth Dalai Lama,” Massachusetts Institute of Technology, September, 2003.

This event featured candid discussions between the Buddhist and scientific communities about the nature of mental imagery (that is the session in which I was participating), emotion, and the nature of attention and concentration. The Dalai Lama was a central participant in all of the discussions. Recordings of this meeting are available on video, and the organizers are planning a book molded out of the transcripts of the meeting.
